

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Date: February 12, 2006

DivorceDoneRight WINS 2006 Forbes Enterprise Award Leading the Way with a New Approach to Divorce

PLYMOUTH MEETING, PA – February 12, 2006 – On Monday February 5th, DivorceDoneRight was awarded the 2006 Forbes Enterprise Award. Out of all the finalists and winners, DivorceDoneRight was the only mediation or law related business in the country to reach this level. According to the Enterprise Award website,

“Award recipients have distinguished themselves and are being recognized for their ideas and innovations in business.”

“We are so proud to be honored in this way by Forbes Magazine. This type of national recognition of our resolution-oriented approach to divorce from such a dignified publication should go a long way to support our mission of educating the public about the virtues of mediation. DivorceDoneRight will soon be helping couples across the country learn about and use this wonderful tool to avoid painful and expensive divorce litigation and remain in charge of their decision-making process. While our home will always be the Delaware Valley, we hope to bring together the best family mediators across the country and open offices where they practice.” states DivorceDoneRight Founder and President Jon Ostroff.

The Forbes Enterprise Awards are designed to recognize professional efforts and accomplishments. Within 25 categories winners were selected by a judging panel of business experts led by Judith H. Dobrzynski, past Senior Editor of New York Times and Business Week, and Managing Editor of CNBC. The judging process evaluated entries in the following areas: Marketing, Customer Service, Employee Relations, Community Service and New Product/Service Offerings.

DivorceDoneRight offers mediation for the entire spectrum of family disputes. DivorceDoneRight mediators must possess at least 10 years of mediation experience and be recognized among their peers in the mediation community as one of the top mediators in their region. Divorcing couples can mediate custody, distribution of assets, alimony, child support and any other issues that they choose to address. Parents who never married can use mediation to address custody issues. Same-sex couples can use mediation to address the myriad of issues that arise in dissolving their relationship.

DivorceDoneRight Mediation Suites are located throughout the Delaware Valley, in Philadelphia, Blue Bell, Chestnut Hill, Malvern, Media, Morrisville (Bucks County), Norristown, Phoenixville, Plymouth Meeting, Pottstown, Rockledge, West Chester, Willow Grove, Wynnewood and Haddon Heights, NJ.

For more information, visit DivorceDoneRight.com or call toll free at (866)DD-RIGHT.

###